

Burlington County Professional Development Institute

formerly Burlington County Inclusion Project (BCIP)

For many years the Burlington County Inclusion Project (BCIP) has been a valuable professional development resource for Child Study Team Directors, teachers of special education, and related services professionals. It is because of the success of the BCIP model that we are excited to announce the expansion and evolution of the BCIP to the newly formed Burlington County Professional Development Institute (BCPDI).

The BCPDI, like its predecessor, BCIP, offers participating districts professional development opportunities; however, the scope of these offerings will address a wider range of relevant topics in addition to those related to special education. Staff in participating districts are entitled to attend all workshops, with permission of their district, offered by the BCPDI at no additional cost. An Advisory Committee comprised of district representatives will meet four times each year to assist in identifying workshop topics that best meet district needs and interests.
